The Focus:

This year's conference will focus on the idea that we now need to plan for crime prevention needs of the future. In order to successfully address crime prevention in the future there are many pieces that need to come together. Partnerships need to be developed. All citizens need to be involved. Community health, mental health agencies, education, employment services and justice must work together for the good of our communities and the citizens that live within it.

Goals of the Conference:

- The involvement of more people in crime prevention activities.
- Encouraging other groups and agencies to take action.
- Examining what has worked in the past and predicting the needs of the future

- Network, share, learn and celebrate the many successes that have been experienced in the past.
- Celebrate all those who have contributed to crime prevention in Canada.
